

QUESTION

Where can I find quick and easy answers to my questions regarding hot-dip galvanizing?

ANSWER

The best place to find concise answers to routine questions on galvanizing is the AGA's newly developed KnowledgeBase, which can be found at www.galvanizeit.org/aga/knowledgebase. Similar to the Dr. Galv resources, the KnowledgeBase provides a searchable alternative with short answers to more common questions. Articles are categorized by topic, searchable by keyword, and are also selectively included on the front page as 'Featured Articles' and 'Top-Rated Articles.'

Users are able to comment on each article, view other readers' comments, and give the article thumbs-up or thumbs-down approval, making the KnowledgeBase an interactive tool. If users are still unable to find what they are looking for, or have a question regarding something they find, each article has the "Ask an Expert" button that users can click to send their question or concern straight to the AGA's technical department. All of these features make the KnowledgeBase an always evolving, up-to-date portion of the AGA's online resources for hot-dip galvanizing.
